

Traminer Passito AUR Delle Venezie IGT

PRODUCER'S STORY

The 25 hectares of Ronco del Gelso vineyards are located in the north-eastern edge of Italy in the Friuli Isonzo DOC area.

It is a family-run estate founded in 1988 by Giorgio Badin who transformed his father's livestock farm into a winery. From a few thousand bottles today it produces about 150,000 bottles a year. The originality of the wines of Ronco del Gelso is due to the ideal climate for the maturation of quality grapes where the flows of fresh air from central Europe mix with the warm Adriatic winds and the stony, calcareous and very dry alluvial soil of the Isonzo area. Giorgio Badin has always believed that the best oenology is done only with extremely high-quality raw materials, so the utmost importance is given to the vineyard and the care with which the grapes are prepared. The white grapes are pressed whole, trying to preserve as much as possible the varietal aromas, then some mature in large wood and others in steel, but all remain on the lees for a long time.

The reds are vinified in the traditional way with long maceration followed by a long aging in wood.

The wines obtained are balanced wines of European taste capable of lasting many years in the bottle, always evolving in a positive way where finesse and elegance are the most present characters.

They are wines that in addition to the variety tell where they come from.

WHAT HAPPENED IN 2011?

It is a sweet raisin wine, decided more by technology than by the vintage which was hot and gave us a wine of thickness and intense aroma

WHAT DOES IT TASTE LIKE?

It shows a deep golden color with coppery highlights. The bouquet has generous layers of candied fruit, dried fig, honey and peach. The beauty mouth-feel pushes the outer limits of intensity and thickness. Creamy, but never cloying, the wine deals an impeccable note of fruity sweetness.

WHAT TO DRINK IT WITH?

It shows a deep golden color with coppery highlights. The bouquet has generous layers of candied fruit, dried fig, honey and peach. The beauty mouth-feel pushes the outer limits of intensity and thickness. Creamy, but never cloying, the wine deals an impeccable note of fruity sweetness.

WHAT'S IN IT?

VINTAGE 2011

GRAPE VARIETY 100% TRAMINER

REGION FRIULI V.G. - ITALY

WINEMAKER BADIN GIORGIO

ALCOHOL (ABV) 12,0%

STYLE ELEGANT, COMPLEX,
LONG AGING

FARMING SUSTAINABLE

AWARD 94 RP TROPHY IWC

94 G&G